

President's Corner

As we begin a new year, I hope that this message finds you and your loved ones healthy and safe. Reflecting back on the past year, I think we can all agree that 2020 was a very challenging time to endure. However, in spite of the hardships that the College and the community have faced, I am proud of all of our students' accomplishments and our work in the community to make these difficult times less burdensome, and I am hopeful for the future.

A new year brings new beginnings; our Spring semester has started and students have returned to the classroom, whether virtually or in person. Although we continue to limit the population density on our campuses for the safety of our entire college community, I am very pleased to report that we have increased the number of in-person course sections this semester to give students more options that meet their academic needs. At the same time, our academics, student support services and student activities are more accessible than ever, thanks to the expanded virtual platforms we have adopted.

Additionally, we have been busy making improvements to our campuses to enhance the student experience and to elevate our image to reflect the high quality of services we provide. To this end, our Foundation has recently kicked off the "Bring It Home" capital campaign to renovate the baseball field on the Mays Landing Campus and provide our Buccaneers baseball team with the home it needs to practice, train, and play. The plans include a redesign of the field, landscaping, fencing, lighting, a field house, and a concession stand.

This investment will benefit our entire college community because team sports play a major role in building college spirit, teaching sportsmanship, and boosting enrollment. Our baseball program has already proven that it can transform our student athletes' lives by placing a strong emphasis on academic excellence (this year so far, the team has a 3.4 GPA average) while simultaneously empowering players to develop a sense of teamwork, improve their study habits, and learn how to give back to their communities. Now, through the efforts of our enthusiastic baseball coaches and our fundraising co-captains, Mr. Stephen Nehmad, a proud alumnus and a buccaneer baseball player from 1968-1969, and Mr. Thomas H. Heist IV, President of Thomas Heist Insurance Agency, the new field and facilities will elevate our program to the next level and will give our team the resources they need to truly be at the top of their game.

The official fundraising campaign will kick off in early March. In the meantime, if you are interested in making a contribution to the Foundation for the "Bring It Home" campaign or to support student scholarships and emergency student aid, please visit atlantic.edu/bringithome or reach out to Kristin Jackson at (609) 463-3621 or kjackson@atlantic.edu.

I thank you for your continued support, especially during these challenging times, and I look forward to brighter days ahead.

Sincerely,

Dr. Barbara Gaba
President

Atlantic Cape Exceeds 2020 GivingTuesday Goal with Surprise Donation $10,000 Donation Nearly Doubles This Year's Goal

Atlantic Cape Community College's 2020 GivingTuesday campaign got a big boost on December 14 when an anonymous donor contributed $10,000 to the Atlantic Cape Foundation – the same amount the college was hoping to raise overall. The generous donor asked that the money go toward supporting the area of greatest need. The funds will be used to provide emergency support for students with significant financial needs.

Atlantic Cape's 2020 Giving Tuesday campaign ran through the end of December and offered donors the opportunity to fund three different programs: renovations to the baseball field, general scholarships, and the areas of greatest need. Prior to the $10,000 donation, community members along with alumni and friends of Atlantic Cape had already donated close to $8,000. This now brings the total amount raised to just under $18,000, which is more than double what the college raised last year.

"I'm incredibly grateful for all of the donations we received in support of our annual GivingTuesday campaign, especially during a time when so many are struggling," said Atlantic Cape Community College President Dr. Barbara Gaba. "Every dollar makes a difference, and this year we are especially thankful and appreciative for the generosity of our donors so we can continue to help our students at a time when they need it most."

Update from the Atlantic Cape Communication Alumni Council!

The mantra of Communication majors is simple: Work Hard. Get Involved. Support One Another. The Communication Alumni Council adopted the mantra as well in order to build a successful community. The council, founded in 2018 has built a foundation of members including recent and older alumni, current students, and Atlantic Cape faculty and staff. Through this community, we have been able to hold numerous fundraising campaigns including our inaugural pancake breakfast in 2019 and online campaigns. This year, like many others, we were unable to host our in person fundraiser as we would have wanted to due to the ongoing pandemic. However, our community still rallied around the council to raise over $1,500 for this years alumni scholarship. Year after year, the council has been able to increase the number and the amount given to students in the Communication program at Atlantic Cape due to the mantra our community follows. We want to thank our donors for their generosity and for supporting the council and the students during this difficult time. We hope for a better 2021 and hope to see everyone soon. If you have any questions about the Communication Alumni Council, please email us at communicationalumni@gmail.com.

Countdown to Spring and Lighter Fare is On!

The recent weather has most of us setting our sights on warmer temperatures and brighter days. With springtime on its way, it's time to focus our attention on some seasonally lighter fare after months of carb loading with stick to your rib favorites. No better area celebrates that concept year-round than the countries that border the Mediterranean Sea. Greece, Israel and Cyprus are just three of the countries that are known for indulging in calories, but through wholesome, fresh and local ingredients. One of those ingredients is halloumi cheese.

Halloumi is a delicious, semi-soft cheese from the Mediterranean Sea area, specifically the country of Cyprus. This cheese is a wonderful substitute for traditional proteins in salads because you can actually grill it. Unlike most cheeses with a high fat content, halloumi cheese can easily be grilled without it melting. It will soften slightly and then achieve a lovely brownness much like a piece of chicken or even a normal cut of meat. Although it does not melt like a traditional cheese, it offers a large amount of flavor with a balance of salt and almost crisp like texture.

As we enter the time of year where salads, fish, poultry and fresh fruits and vegetables reign supreme, this is a wonderful dish for brunches and light lunches. For your vinaigrette, Za'atar, a Middle Eastern spice blend made usually of dried herbs such as oregano, thyme and marjoram, dried sumac, and sesame seeds, adds a bright and unexpected flavor. This spice combo is popular in countries on the Mediterranean Sea and has become widely available in most grocery stores.

Israeli Couscous Salad with Grilled Halloumi and Lemon Za'atar Vinaigrette

Serves 2 Prep Time: 1 hour Cook Time: 10 minutes

- 1 box of Israeli couscous, cooked to box directions and cooled
- 2 cups of arugula (spinach or frisée work, too)
- 1/2 cup cucumber, diced
- 1/4 cup onion, diced
- 1/4 cup sunflower seeds
- 1/3 cup kalamata olives, sliced in half
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 1/2 tsp za'atar spice
- 3/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 12oz halloumi cheese, sliced length wise into 1/4-inch slices
- Salt & pepper to taste
- Lemon juice to taste

In a large mixing bowl, combine the Israeli Couscous, Arugula, Diced Cucumber, Diced Onion, Kalamata Olives and Sunflower Seeds.

In a medium sized mixing bowl, add lemon juice, za'atar spice and black pepper. Start whisking and slowly drizzle in your extra virgin olive oil. Once all combined, add salt to taste.

Drizzle vinaigrette over Couscous salad mixture and toss to combine. Plate up and set aside.

In a large pan over medium heat, spray with a little bit of cooking oil. Once pan is hot, place cheese slices carefully in pan. Allow to brown and carefully flip over. Brown the other side as well and then plate directly on to salad. Serve immediately and enjoy!

BE INVOLVED. STAY CONNECTED.
And continue the Buccaneer tradition of excellence!
