

Robin Wesner

Wesner with "HONEYSUCKLE" 2010

Artist Robin Wesner was born in Philadelphia, PA. A graduate of the University of Tampa, Wesner taught second grade for three years in Ocean City, NJ. While raising her family, she worked as a substitute teacher which allowed time for working on art. A self-taught artist who paints with a palette knife, Wesner has completed over 80 large works in acrylic on canvas.

Working in the medium of acrylic paint, Wesner has produced a body of work that broadens and extends the abstract interpretation of the floral composition. Precise, balanced and economic, her paintings celebrate movement and color, giving form and image to the painting.

It is the composition of lines that is central to her work. In fact, it is the line itself that is the essence of her painting. Many of her paintings are created entirely of lines, carefully composed against a field of pure color. It is only after an exhaustive study of her subject that she can achieve the clarity of line that is characteristic of her work.

An Artist Member of the Noyes Museum of Art in Oceanville, NJ, Robin Wesner has shown her work in New York City, Washington, DC and Montreal, and more recently, at the Gloucester County Community College and the Perkins Center for the Arts in Collingswood, NJ.
