*About
Cheryl Knowles-Harrigan*

Cheryl Knowles-Harrigan was educated at Philadelphia College of Art (illustration) and Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts (painting, printmaking). Her graduate degree is from Richard Stockton College of NJ. She is an Assistant Professor of Art at Atlantic Cape Community College where she teaches drawing, mixed-media painting, printmaking, and General Education art courses for the non-major. She has lectured on art history and led art appreciation and hands-on workshops for teenagers and adults. Most recently, she received a Princeton Mid-Career Fellowship which allowed her to study at Princeton University in fall 2009 and spring 2010. She is in numerous private collections and has exhibited her work in many solo and group shows in New Jersey and Philadelphia. Her work can be seen at La Bottega of Art and RRCA's studio #3 both on High Street in Millville. Cheryl is a resident of Milmay, NJ where she lives with her husband John and their three dogs.
